

Первый урок Lesson One

Dialogues: A: "Hi! How's it going?"
B: "What's up?"
Grammar: Informal vs. Formal Forms of Address
(Introduction)
No Verb To Be in the Present Tense
Russian to English: Fixed Expressions

Note: The English transcription given in square brackets below the Russian text is a very rough guide that will be used until the entire alphabet is presented. Listen carefully to your instructor and the recordings for the exact pronunciation.

Диалог

Dialogues

Диалог А. Привет! Как дела? Hi! How's it going?

Вэра Véra	1	Мíша, привёт! Как дела? [Mísha, privét! Kak delá?]	Misha, hi! How's it going? (How are things?)
Мíша Mísha	2	Хорошо. А у тебя? [Khoroshó. A u tebyá?]	Good. And with you? (How about you?)
Вэра Véra	3	Так себе. [Ták sebe.]	So-so.
Мíша Mísha	4	Извини, мне некогда. Пока. [Izviní, mne nékogda. Poká.]	Sorry, I'm in a hurry. Later.
Вэра Véra	5	Ну, ладно, до свидания. (Mísha walks away) Нахал! [Nu, ládno, do svidániya. (Misha walks away) Nakhál!]	Well, OK, see you later. (Misha walks away) Jerk!

Диалог Б. Что слышно? What's up?

Юра Yúra	6	Нíна, привёт! Что слышно? [Nína, privét! Chto slíshno?]	Nina, hi! What's up?
Нíна Nína	7	Не спрашивай. А у тебя? [Ne spráshivay. A u tebyá?]	Don't ask. And with you?
Юра Yúra	8	Ничего. [Nichevó.]	Nothing. (Everything is pretty much OK.)
Нíна Nína	9	Извини, мне некогда. Пока. [Izviní, mne nékogda. Poká.]	Sorry, I'm in a hurry. Later.
Юра Yúra	10	Ну, ладно, до свидания. (Nína walks away) Нахалка! [Nu, ládno, do svidániya. (Nina walks away) Nakhálka!]	Well, all right, see you later. (Nina walks away) Jerk!

Словáрь

Vocabulary

1	привéт	[privét]	hi (used only with friends and family)
1	как делá?	[kak delá?] two words – one stress	how's it going? how are things?
2	хорошó	[khoroshó]	good; well
2	а у теб'я?	[a u tebyá?]	and you? (lit: 'and by you?')
3	тáк себе	[ták sebe] two words – one stress	so-so (this is somewhat negative)
4	извинí	[izviní]	excuse (me); pardon (me); sorry
4	мне нéкогда	[mne nékogda]	I'm in a hurry; I have to run (lit: 'to me there is no time')
4	пока́	[poká]	(see you) later
5	ну	[nu]	well...
5	ладно́	[ládno]	OK, all right (sign of agreement)
5	до свидáния	[do svidániya] two words – one stress	good-bye; see you later
5	нахáл	[nakhál]	rude person who does not think of others; jerk (male)
6	что сл'ышно?	[chto slishno?]	what's up?; what's new? (lit.: 'what is audible?')
7	не спрашивáй	[ne spráshivay] two words – one stress	don't ask
8	ничегó	[nichevó]	nothing (Ничегó also has an adverbial meaning not bad, OK.)
10	нахáлка	[nakhálka]	female version of нахáл

(Numbers following words and phrases below refer to lines in dialogue)

1.A Informal vs. Formal Forms of Address (Introduction)

привéт! (1)

Bépa uses привéт hi, an informal greeting, with her friend Мíша. Russian, like many languages, distinguishes between formal and informal forms of address. Saying привéт to your professor would roughly be the same as saying Hey, man, what's up?, (not too advisable). We will see an example of a formal form of address in Lesson 3. Until then, speak Russian only to your friends.

1.B Russian Has No Verb To Be in the Present Tense

как делá (1); что слýшно (6)

Note that in Как делá?, the Russian equivalent of the question How's it going?, there is no verb; the sentence consists of just как = how and делá = things; matters. In Russian the present tense of the verb be (am, are, is) is not expressed. Some other examples:

Как how	∅ ¹ Are	делá? things?
Что What	∅ Is	слýшно? audible (What's new?)
Мíша Misha	∅ Is	нахáл. (a) jerk.

This explains why you may hear a Russian speaking English say, “I teacher. My husband engineer.”

¹ The ∅ (‘zero’) symbol will be used throughout this book to indicate the absence of a word or ending.

1.B Russian to English: Fixed Expressions

тáк себе so-so (3); до свидáния good-bye (5)

The dialogues and texts in this book contain numerous “fixed expressions.” In some cases the meaning of the phrase can be predicted more or less from the sum of the parts, e.g., до= until + свидáния = meeting (which is similar to the French au revoir). In other cases no such “addition” is possible, e.g., так = so; thus + себе = to oneself, yet together так себе means so-so, not great.

Below are expressions from the dialogues roughly in order of predictability of meaning:

Predictable	что what	+	слы́шно? audible	=	what's up?
	↓
Somewhat predictable	до until	+	свидáния meeting	=	good-bye
	↓
Not predictable	у by	+	тебя́? you	=	with you?
	↓
Not predictable	мне to me	+	не́когда there is no time	=	I'm in a hurry
	↓
Not predictable	тáк so	+	себе self	=	so-so

Just be aware that (obviously!) learning Russian is not simply a matter of translating English words into Russian words and vice versa.

Actually, Russian is not that different from English, and in many cases a literal word for word translation will result in a grammatical sentence – but not always. We will be sure to alert you in such cases.

NOTE ON CHAPTER ONE:

DON'T PANIC! Within the next two weeks you will be presented with no small amount of material. But here are some things to bear in mind during this time:

- The main goal of Chapter One is to master the Russian alphabet and sound system. The test for Chapter One will be almost exclusively on this.
- Practice everything you hear out loud in order to get accustomed to the sounds and intonation of the Russian language. By doing this, all the rules on spelling and sounds, which need to be memorized at the beginning, will soon become second nature.
- We also wanted to include some useful words and expressions (like asking how things are going or saying that someone is a jerk) and at least some basic grammatical concepts just to get you started. If there's anything you don't understand about grammar, rest assured that it will be reviewed and practiced thoroughly in later chapters.
- Don't give up! If you can get past Chapter One, you can accomplish anything in this class – and in life.